MU Animal Science Program Overview

University of Missouri Pork Institute

The University of Missouri Pork Institute is an intensive three-day educational program. Its goal is to instruct young people in profitable pork production, introduce them to the latest technological developments and train them to be leaders in the U.S. pork industry. Participants will compete for two $500 college scholarships.

June 10-12, 2019

University of Missouri-
Columbia campus

Program Time

1:00 pm Monday, June 10 to 4:00 pm Wednesday, June 12.

Cost

$100 per student — This fee covers registration, materials, meals, dormitory lodging and field trips. Participants are responsible for their transportation costs between home and Columbia.

Eligibility

The Pork Institute is open to young men and women who are interested in a career in the pork industry. Participants must have been high school students in the spring of 2019.

Selection Process

The Pork Institute is limited to 15 individuals. Interested candidates are encouraged to apply. A selection committee composed of university faculty and leaders in the pork industry will screen the applicants.

Application Deadline

All applications for the 2019 University of Missouri Pork Institute must be postmarked no later than April 26, 2019. Results of the selection process will be announced May 3, 2019.

Housing

Students will spend both nights in the air-conditioned Virginia Avenue dormitory on the University of Missouri campus. Sheets and towels are furnished with the room.

Funding

The Missouri Pork Association and the University of Missouri College of Agriculture, Food and Natural Resources provide financial support for the Pork Institute.
